A Season for Everything

There is something about October that makes us pause. The air turns crisp, the leaves begin their slow change from green to gold, and the long days of summer give way to cozy evenings. Change is all around us, and if we're honest, change isn't always easy.

Scripture reminds us that seasons are part of God's design. "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven" (Ecclesiastes 3:1). Just as the earth moves through spring, summer, fall, and winter, our lives move through seasons too: seasons of growth and seasons of rest, seasons of joy and seasons of waiting.

Fall teaches us a beautiful lesson. Trees release their leaves not because they are dying, but because they are preparing for new life. Sometimes God asks us to let go of things so He can make room for what He is bringing next.

Through every change, one thing remains: God Himself. "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever" (Isaiah 40:8). His faithfulness doesn't shift with the weather. "His compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness" (Lamentations 3:22–23).

Whatever season you find yourself in this fall, whether it's one of harvest or one of letting go, take heart. The God who paints the hillsides in autumn color is the same God who holds your life in His hands.

This week, take a moment to step outside, notice the changing world around you, and thank Him for His unchanging love.

"Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, and today, and forever." (Hebrews 13:8)
